"Taking flight into the future."

aboutAviation:

The Taylor County aviation program is a two-year course with students having the option of returning a third year to assist younger peers and participate in afterschool activities such as visiting the Taylor County Airport every Tuesday. Students are currently working on refurbishing a Zenith and an Aeronca Wing which is one of only four left in existence.

During school, students work on comprehensive programs such as Aeroscholars and complete highly-realistic flight simulator missions on computer pictured to the left. Students also participate in various competitions. (Skills, Real-world design, and wing design.)
